THE Provisional Committee are now prepared to receive Subscriptions, for the information of the public, that the Colonial Government has in lieuand a willingness to extend the guarantee of a minimum rate of interest of five per cent. per annum to the term of twenty-five years. And that this rate of interest will be guaranteed on the value of all sums actually expended, not only in carrying out the works, but also in the Surveys and other preliminary measures necessary for the commencement of the undertaking.

The Provisional Committee have also the gratifications of being enabled to state, that they have been furnished with a copy of a Survey, made in the year 1820, by the Surveyor General's Department, of a line of road from the City of Sydney to the Towns of Parramatta and Liverpool, which Sir Thomas Mitchell considers to be in the most eligible direction for carrying the Railway towards the interior. Concurring in opinion with the Surveyor-General, they have directed the Engineer of the Company immediately to commence the making of such further examinations and surveys of this portion of the line as will enable him to prepare the plans which are necessary before the Act of Incorporation can be obtained.

They have further to indicate that the Government has, upon their application, sanctioned the employment of an Officer of the Surveyor-General's Department, to assist, by survey the most eligible route for ascending the table land of Argyle.

Measures will also be adopted for having a survey made of the line best fitted for opening up railway communication between Parramatta and Windsor.

Applications for shares, in the prescribed form, may be made at the Office of the Company, Sydney; or to the Honorary Agents in the Country Districts, from whom blank forms of application can be obtained.

CHARLES COWPER, Chairman of the Provisional Committee.

THE PROPERTIES HERETOFORE BELONGING TO MESSRS. HUGHES AND TRAVERS

AT ALL SUMS ACTUALLY EXPENDED, BUT ONLY IN CARRYING OUT THE WORKS, BUT ALSO IN THE SURVEYS AND OTHER PRELIMINARY MEASURES NECESSARY FOR THE COMMENCEMENT OF THE UNDERTAKING.

The Provisional Committee have also the gratification of being enabled to state, that they have been furnished with a copy of a Survey, made in the year 1820, by the Surveyor General's Department, of a line of road from the City of Sydney to the Towns of Parramatta and Liverpool, which Sir Thomas Mitchell considers to be in the most eligible direction for carrying the Railway towards the interior. Concurring in opinion with the Surveyor-General, they have directed the Engineer of the Company immediately to commence the making of such further examinations and surveys of this portion of the line as will enable him to prepare the plans which are necessary before the Act of Incorporation can be obtained.

They have further to indicate that the Government has, upon their application, sanctioned the employment of an Officer of the Surveyor-General's Department, to assist, by survey the most eligible route for ascending the table land of Argyle.

Applications for shares, in the prescribed form, may be made at the Office of the Company, Sydney; or to the Honorary Agents in the Country Districts, from whom blank forms of application can be obtained.

CHARLES COWPER, Chairman of the Provisional Committee.

IT having been found impossible, in consequence of the numerous variety of the lots, to prepare the detailed list as soon as was expected, it is considered advisable in the meantime to state that the above plan will contain 12,000 tickets, at £5 each. This number will be divided into two classes of tickets of 6000 each, to be called Class A, and Class B, attached to each of which there will be a separate class of lots with the same letter. The value of the property allotted to class A, will be about £45,000, or a fair compensation, and to the two classes A and B, about £90,000.

The number and number of the superior lots in each of the classes A and B, will be as nearly identical as possible. The Tickets in class A, will be first sold, and unless the whole of them are sold, the lots in this class only will be drawn; but as soon as all the tickets in class A, are taken, the tickets in class B, will be thrown open to public competition, and the two classes both of tickets and lots will then be amalgamated and drawn together. The tickets for class A, will be ready for issue in a few days. Among the lots belonging to class A, there will be one of £6000, one of £5000, one of £3000, one of £900, three of £750 each, two of £500 each, and upwards of 1000 other lots in 600 rent-bearing allotments varying in value from £5 to £300, and of the average value of about £78. The average value of the whole of the superior lots belonging to this class (class A,) being upwards of £100.

Class A, will contain upwards of £16,000 of Sydney property, £8000 of Suburban property, one Freehold Estate, of about 11,000 acres, with 15,000 sheep on them, and good agricultural lands, in first-rate localities, of the value of upwards of £20,000. These lands will for the most part be divided into small farms, varying in extent and value from £50 to £100. The whole of these properties are in the Middle District of the colony, and guaranteed to the drawer of the lots with clear titles, and free from all incumbrances.

The tickets will be drawn on the 2nd of July next, at least, not sooner, if the tickets are sooner taken up.

Applications for tickets, and all other communications with reference to the above plan of partition, to be addressed to Mr. Waverley, at the office, on the premises, at Campbell, Sen., and Co., Bligh-street, Sydney.

IMPORTANT TO PARTIES WEARING ARTIFICIAL TEETH.

MR. J. EMANUEL, Surgeon-Dentist, duly qualified, wish it to inform his patrons and the public in general, that he has received from a friend, an eminent Dentist in Paris, an information relative to making the plates that artificial teeth are fixed on. It is an entire new system, thereby doing away with all irritation, so that persons with most tender gums can wear the teeth with the utmost ease and comfort; by their peculiar method many hundreds of persons will now be able to use Artificial Teeth that could not possibly do so before.

N.B.—This discovery being only known to Mr. E. (in this City), he cautions the public against imposition.

Mr. Emanuel begs to remind the public, that he is no advertiser of cures for sale, but the extraction of the teeth, instantaneous relief may be obtained by purchasing his Tincture, so universally known and approved of, and to inhalate with Sheffield's Gas, for use at 2s. 6d.; also, Soothing Syrup for Infants teething. Teeth and stumps extracted; teeth plombed, if tender, and stopped with pure virgin gold. Artificial palates on Mr. E.'s own principle, approved of by the Faculty of this city.

At home from nine A.M. till six P.M.

☞ Observe the address, 225, Elizabeth-street North, eight doors from Hunter-street.

NEW REGISTRY OFFICE, FOR SERVANTS AND MERCHANT SEAMEN, BRIDGE-STREET,

(In a direct line between Lyons's Auction Mart and the Circular Wharf.)

MR. ANDREW HENT (late Newspaper Proprietor of Van Diemen's Land), begs to inform the ladies and gentlemen and other inhabitants of the colony, as well as commanders and masters of vessels, that he has taken those eligible premises as above situated; and that they will be opened immediately on the necessary license being obtained from the Government, as a Registry Office for all kinds of business, and in general. It is highly gratifying to Mr. Hent to know and feel that, during an interval of his necessary absence from the colony, he has enjoyed (and he hopes not undeservedly) the good opinions of numerous friends in the metropolis and various parts of the interior; whose assurances of patronage and support, in commencing this line of business, have encouraged him to hope for success. His long final experience and colonial industry in other branches of trade, especially in mercantile, grazing, and agricultural pursuits, are now by the testimony of the Chief Justice, and many other gentlemen of high respectability in the colony, expressive of such high opinion of his probity, industry, and integrity of character, will, he trusts, be a sufficient guarantee for the confidence that may be placed in him in the faithful discharge of the business to be entered upon; and which shall be executed with assiduity, punctuality, and despatch. And while he feels grateful for the countenance and generous interest which his friends have thus evinced in his welfare, he desires not that his perseverance and attentions will assure to him a full share of public support, which he now respectfully solicits.

☞ Small sums of money advanced on good security, and seamen's advanced orders discounted. The utmost attention paid to all orders sent, both in town and country, for procuring servants and seamen, as well as cottages and houses, or lines for sale or to let, and lodging, furnished or unfurnished. Acceptance bills discounted at the usual rate of interest, and with the utmost confidence. 3103

RESUMPTION OF TRANSPORTATION.

We would call the particular attention of our readers to the following letters from Mr. J. A. Jackson, the Agent in London for Van Diemen's Land, in which it is stated that convicts are again to be sent to this colony, and that no free people are to be sent with them at the expense of the British Government.

London, 6th October, 1848.

Gentlemen,—I am enabled to communicate to you the following upon good authority:—

Lord Grey (in 1847) placed on the parliamentary estimates for the year ending 31st March, 1848, under the head of convict expenditure, a sum of 20,000 for generally colonial free emigration to Van Diemen's Land, though it would be considered applicable, in the first instance, to the support of the wives and families of well-conducted convicts. The necessary instructions have been given to the Emigration Commissioners. Sir William Denison has sent forward a list of convicts deserving this indulgence. There may be difficulty in finding out the wives; and it is possible some may be unfitted for emigration.

Reduced numbers of convicts will continue to be sent to Van Diemen's Land, after undergoing the probationary course of discipline in England or elsewhere. Means were being resorted to for finding occupation for discharged convicts in Scotland and Ireland. But referring to the objections existing in Van Diemen's Land to the transportation of convicts, Lord Grey, the government, and the bulk of the British colonies have been written to to inquire if each colony is willing to receive a portion of the convicts annually coming into the class of exiles.

Some convicts have already been sent to New South Wales, and an Order in Council would again shortly be issued for the colony, in which convicts might by law be transported. But the government would not, now, have it in its power to send any convicts to Port Phillip free emigrants in proportion to any number of convicts sent to New South Wales. It had formerly proposed doing this; but when the colonists declined receiving convicts; and now the financial state of the country will prevent the Chancellor of the Exchequer from acceding to any such proposal.

I am, gentlemen, very faithfully yours,

J. A. JACKSON.

R. Dry and H. Dowling, Esqrs.
Van Diemen's Land.

London, October 26, 1848.

Gentlemen,—I had yesterday the honour of an interview with Lord Grey. Newspapers from the colony to 25th May, inclusive, have apprised me of the arrival of the Mountstuart Elphinstone, with convicts, from Gibraltar; and these, together with the private communications which have reached this country, led me to understand that my anticipations as to the effect which that revival of transportation would produce, in regard to the prospects of your community, had been realised. My remarks despatches to you during the course of the year will have explained the progress of the transportation question in this country. Lord Grey's communication to me of the 2nd of June last, intimated that it was hoped the determination of the government, as arrived at in April, would be subjected to reconsideration; when my remonstrances against the resumption of transportation would not be without weight in any future decision which might be arrived at on the subject. The answer of Sir George Grey to the questions put by Mr. Ewart towards the end of the session, incomplete and unsatisfactory as they were, displayed that the subject was under consideration; that it was a source of embarrassment to the government—and that the question of sending convicts elsewhere than to Van Diemen's Land was occupying their attention. My letter of the 8th instant, apprised you that it had at length been determined to send convicts to New South Wales; and I feel that I may now mention that the authority upon which I then wrote, was that of Mr. Labouchere, one of the Secretaries; what fell from Mr. Elliot (in an interview which I had with that gentleman) having been confirmed by the Secretary of State himself.

Understanding, however, that additional convict ships were under orders for Van Diemen's Land, and that the same course which I set forth in the steps I had taken, by the latest advices from the colony, I thought it desirable to approach Lord Grey with further representations against the continuance of transportation to Van Diemen's Land; and I hoped to be able to state that the steps which I had previously done, how opposed to every right principle such continued transportation would be, I trust would prove effectual in giving a very full opportunity of doing so; and I did not fail to profit by it.

I felt that it was very important that his lordship should fully understand what I believe has been the great economical error at the bottom of all the proceedings in respect of penal affairs for the last twenty years. Accordingly made a statement to his lordship to this effect:—I ventured to think that in all the years previous to the commencement of the New South Wales was abandoned, the capacity of the colony of Van Diemen's Land to employ labour had been fully taxed—and even more, that there had been indeed an entire oversight of many peculiarities in the productive system of the colony, which, in the circumstances, rendered it impossible such continued transportation would be. Free emigration, I thought, was now [illegible] of every description; and every [illegible] satisfied and delighted. Delightful [illegible] with a dinner, at which Mr. [illegible] presided, and forty sat down. All [illegible] such occasions [illegible] received with enthusiasm, besides [illegible], displaying all that unanimity [illegible] which crowns undertakings of [illegible] proper.

THE ROSE INN, GUNDAGAI.

MR. STUBBS has received instructions from the proprietor, Mr. Charles Simpson, to submit to public auction, at the Mart, King-street,

ON TUESDAY, APRIL 3,

At twelve o'clock precisely,

THOSE LUCRATIVE AND FORTUNE-MAKING BUSINESS PREMISES, KNOWN AT

THE ROSE INN, NORTH GUNDAGAI.

At present occupied by Mr. Simpson.

TO INTENDING BUYERS—

Every person who has travelled on now the Murrumbidgee, Port Phillip, and Lower Gundagai, cannot have failed to notice the extensive patronage and custom which has deservedly enjoyed by the Rose Inn, North Inn, from its moderate charges, comfort, and attention and courtesy on the part of the host.

The house stands on an elevated building site, on one acre of land, in the main road leading to the Ferry. It is substantially built and contains twelve rooms, nearly finished, plastered, and painted. The bar is tastefully well fitted up with beer engine, and fountain, painted "Tom and Jerry." The whole is more respectably furnished with a description of furniture, which can be taken at a valuation.

Other auxiliary improvements tend to perfect this most comfortable hotel. Inn, as at the present time, consists of a good substantial detached kitchen, servants' room, granary, store 32 by 12 feet, six stalls, stable, milking-yard, back-yards, sheds, and every other convenience required for business.

The establishment is well supplied with stock of spirits, wines, &c., of the very flavour and quality, which can be taken by purchasers at present.

The auctioneer is instructed not to extend or enlarge his description on the values of above properties, as it is a well-known fact that the present proprietor and his predecessor have respectively accumulated a fortune such the short space of 11 years—the former proprietor in less than three; and he is anxious of retiring in order to enjoy the fruits of his industry, to private life.

Also,

Two allotments of land, opposite the "Rose," both corner allotments, each of them being two tenths. The former is a corner allotment being well stocked with fruit trees and vegetables of every description. The fruit trees bear abundantly.

Also,

A fine large dominicous Punt, now plying on the Murrumbidgee River, together with the necessary gear, appertaining thereto.

Terms at sale. Titles unexceptionable.
